Our Father

The rector noted that there was some criticism about the National Mission, and uncertainty about what it was for.

A poem was printed called The Lord's Prayer about a French and a German soldier who killed each other, and lay there saying the Lord's Prayer in their own language. St. Michael told them that 'Vater Unser' and 'Notre Père' were the same. The soldiers hoped that he would go to earth and tell people because the war would end if everyone knew that.

No deaths were mentioned.
